Hi All,

It has been a while since my last confession. Please forgive me all my transgressions. Over the last couple of weeks I have worked with Tim on figuring out some of the mechanical aspects of the design. I also took a trip out to Surplus Gizmos and bought a few more parts and components to help finish things up. I have been able to upload things to Github, but am still not sure how to link them to our WIKI. I am looking forward to our presentation and getting our prototype polished up a little bit. I will continue to work on getting our documentation filled out.

Esteban
